The Russian invasion in Crimea continues

The “referendum” on Russia’s annexation of Crimea scheduled for March 16, 2014

NEWSLETTER #13. 2-8 March 2014

March 7: Armored vehicles continue arriving in Crimea on board ships from the Russian Baltic fleet. At 17:00, "Kaliningrad", a large landing ship of the Russian Federation's Baltic Fleet, unloaded another delivery in Sevastopol. Unloaded from the ship were 17 URAL vehicles and two BTR-80 armored personnel carriers, reports Dmitriy Tymchuk, head of the Military-Political Research Centre. On March 7, OSCE were not allowed to enter the territory of Crimea, Director of the Information Department of the Foreign Ministry Yevhen Perebiynis said. Read more at (Eng) <http://goo.gl/0RZcSr>

During a press-conference held on March 4 Russian President Vladimir Putin said that he would use his right for military intervention in Ukraine only as a last resort. This might be for the protection of Ukrainian citizens. “Let the ukrainian military try to shoot their own people; Russian soldiers will be standing behind Ukrainian citizens. Not in front of them, but behind.” This was Putin’s answer to the question of what would happen should the Ukrainian military decide to retaliate. Watch the video at (Rus) <http://goo.gl/gqHJo0>

The leaders of the Crimean Tatars, the Muslim minority of the peninsular, have announced they stand with Ukraine. Mustafa Cemilev, MP, stated on March 5: “Ukraine is indivisible. Crimea is an integral part of a united Ukraine. Any revision of the state borders, detaching a part of the country’s territory and attaching it to another one contravenes all international standards, in particular the 1975 Helsinki convention.” Read more at <http://goo.gl/ufSPcH> (Eng)

Crimean Tatar Mejlis chairman Refat Chubarov urged residents of the peninsula to boycott the referendum scheduled for March 16 and called the pro-Russia parliament members who voted for separating Crimea from Ukraine “lunatics” who had “lost their minds”. Read more at (Eng) <http://goo.gl/zybJM6>

Open letter of Ukrainian Jews to Russian Federation President Vladimir Putin: “The Russian-speaking citizens of Ukraine are not being humiliated or discriminated against; their civil rights have not been limited. Meanderings about “forced Ukrainization” and “bans on the Russian language” that have been so common in Russian media are on the heads of those who invented them.” Read the whole text at <http://goo.gl/yR5Wbn> (Eng)

In many Eastern and Southern cities of Ukraine rallies in support of the territorial integrity of Ukraine gathered thousands of participants. Odesa said: “Putin, hand off Ukraine!” <http://goo.gl/144IU7>

STOP FAKE: Russian media propaganda about Ukraine and Crimean intervention distorts reality

Ukrainian and international journalists are being assaulted and beaten in Crimea by the military and “Crimean self-defense” groups. The signals of TV stations Channel 5 and 1+1 were cut off in Crimea on March 6 to be replaced by Russian state-owned channels Rossiya 1 and Rossiya 2. Read more (Eng) at <http://goo.gl/qB6hjE>

In the meantime, Russian TV channels have unfolded a massive campaign on discretization of the Ukrainian revolution and disinformation about the Russian military intervention in Crimea. A number of Ukrainian initiatives are investigating the cases of news fraud and publishing the results online.

Do Crimeans really want to join Russia? Russia is the first country to suffer from the Crimean invasion

A sociological survey conducted by Razumkov Center in January 2013 has shown that Crimeans, unlike easterners or other southerners, showed fairly little affiliation with the Ukrainian state. More than half of Crimean respondents replied by identifying themselves as from Crimea, while almost no one else mentioned their own region. Read more (Eng) at <http://goo.gl/D1clvo>

The Survey conducted in February 2014 by KIIS and the Democratic Initiatives Fund showed that 12% of Ukrainians support the idea of a Russian-Ukrainian Union, while the number is 41% in Crimea. Read more (Eng) at <http://goo.gl/wiPVyD>

Read the interview with Andreas Umland about the hidden methods of war deployed by Russia in Crimea. “Putin doesn’t need a war. War is not popular in Russia. But he needs a success, so he aims to invade Crimea and Eastern regions of Ukraine by other hidden means. The possibility of invasion of Eastern regions, however, is significantly lower, so Putin will try to create chaos and anarchy in these regions using his agents”. Read the whole text (Rus) at <http://goo.gl/Yqc2iN>

Dr. Kravets and Dr. Yakovlev-Golani argue that the status quo – where Crimea remains a part of Ukraine – is actually a better outcome for Russia than independence or annexation. Read more (Eng) at <http://goo.gl/LwNMZY>

Timothy Snyder about of the Ukrainian revolution: “Whatever course the Russian intervention may take, it is not an attempt to stop a fascist coup, since nothing of the kind has taken place. What has taken place is a popular revolution, with all of the messiness, confusion, and opposition that entails.” Read more at (Eng) <http://goo.gl/22ffh3>

Reanimation pack: reforms initiated by civil society and developed by Ukrainian experts for the new Ukrainian government

On 7 March 2014, a group of experts and analysts presented an Intensive Reforms Package, a list of draft bills that should be implemented in Ukraine in the nearest future. The Civic Sector of EuroMaidan and the New Citizen Partnership launched this initiative together with expert and business communities - more than 100 experts altogether. Experts call on MPs to support the reform bills.

The Intensive Reforms Package was prepared by 13 expert groups working on different issues. This initiative was a precedent where public activists, experts, and businessmen joined efforts to promote systematic changes.

The first two bills for the Anti-Corruption Reforms package are ready to be discussed and voted in parliament next week on 11 March. These bills regulate the Government Procurement Transparency and National Registry of Immovable Property.
