Pro-Russians kills civilians in Mariupol, Ukraine demands a stop to war Is Russia a State Sponsor of Terrorism?

As of January 24, 2015, the terrorist forces in eastern Ukraine have bombarded the port city of Mariupol, which has a population of over 400,000, targeting mostly living districts and suburbs, as well as several other prefrontal towns which remain under the protection of the Ukrainian military. <http://goo.gl/gCsrEh>

Jan. 25. Russian Foreign Affairs Minister Lavrov, in phone call with Federica Mogherini, High Representative of the European Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy, openly admitted that Russia was blackmailing Ukraine with use of military aggression and war crimes against civilians. In essence, Lavrov said that Russians might not have bombed Volnovakha, Donetsk, and Mariupol if Ukrainian authorities had listened to Putin and did what he wanted. <http://goo.gl/KIRrvb>

As France and Europe mourned and condemned the senseless terrorism in Paris, the European Parliament only a few days later, in a tough resolution on Ukraine, refused to describe the Russian-sponsored separatist enclaves in eastern Ukraine as “terrorist.” Why the double standards? <http://goo.gl/Iv3SlA>

Historically, Ukraine's proceeds from privatization have been much lower than expected because the best enterprises were sold at low prices to oligarchs close to the government. Creating an independent foreign-managed privatization body will raise investor confidence and attract capital while at the same time reducing the government sector and thus increasing efficiency in the economy. <http://goo.gl/GKF7iT>
